Welcome to the Dental World 2010 exhibition!

Vegetárium, V. Cukor utca 3
Just off Ferenciek tere (noon to 10 p.m. daily), is a full-service vegetarian restaurant with a comprehensive English menu that includes some macrobiotic items.

Café Déryné, I. Krisztian tér 3
One of the most charming café-restos in Budapest. An ideal place after work or to sit in after or before a walk up/down the Castle hill to the Royal Palace or if you decided to walk through the Tunnel on foot.

If you’re not discouraged by the prospect of spending something like 5000 Ft per person for dinner, Gundel, next to the zoo directly behind the Museum of Fine Arts at XIV. Allakerti út 2 (metro: Széchenyi Furdó), is probably Budapest’s fanciest restaurant, with a tradition dating back to 1894. Bagolyvár, Gundel’s little sister next door.

Which bath to go?
The closest bath to the Dental World 2010 is the Széchenyi Spa, a large hot water bath-house in the main city park. The two other large spas are the Gellért, a very exclusive Art Nouveau facility near the river or the Lukács, also on the Buda side of the town. If you prefer to go to Turkish baths, try out the Rudas or Király spas.

Mass transit
If you are planning to use the mass transit a lot, we recommend you to get a Budapest card. This will allow you free transportation for 3 or 5 days and offer slight discounts in many of the city museums, restaurants and spas. These cards can be bought at the ticket offices of the underground system.

Cab drivers
Most of the cab drivers are honest and nice people; however, some of them might exploit some of the tourists.

Some unmarked, unlicensed cab drivers may ask 100-200 or even more Euro for a single ride. They are mostly waiting in frequented areas like the Budapest Opera or around night clubs. Normally a ride should cost around 10-20 Euro inside the city limits.

Always stick to the cabs of the same company, ask our staff to help you find these companies.

Sightseeing
We recommend taking the services of some of the sightseeing companies who offer tours in the city. What you should definitely not miss is the Castle and the downtown. If you have the opportunity try to catch the sunset during a river cruise - one of the most spectacular sights our city can offer.

23 September 2010 – 9 January 2011.
The Museum of Fine Arts will stage an exhibition of the outstanding works dating from the early period of the Vienna Secession with Gustav Klimt as its emblematic figure. The core material of the two hundred or so pieces, mainly drawings and prints, is formed by the works from the collection of the Albertina in Vienna, complemented by drawings and some excellent paintings from Austrian, American and Japanese public and private collections. The exhibition will also include pieces from the Museum of Fine Arts’ own collection works by the various members of the Secession group and pieces by foreign contemporary artists who once exerted great influence on them.
