Welcome to the Dental World 2014 exhibition!

Buda side of the town. If you prefer to go to Turkish baths, try out the Rudas or Király spas.

Public transport
If you are planning to use the mass transit a lot, we recommend you to get a Budapest card. This will allow you free transportation for 3 or 5 days and offer slight discounts in many of the city’s museums, restaurants and spas. These cards can be bought at the ticket offices of the underground system.

Café Dérényé, I. Krisztina tér 3
One of the charming cafe-restaurants in Budapest. An ideal place after work or to sit in before or after a walk up/down the Castle hill to the Royal Palace.

If you’re not discouraged by the prospect of spending something like 5000 Ft per person for dinner, Gundel, next to the Zoo directly behind the Museum of Fine Arts at XIV Allakerti út 2 (metro: Széchenyi Fürdő), is probably Budapest’s fanciest restaurant, with a tradition dating back to 1894, Bagoly-vár, Gundel’s little sister next door.

Vegetárium, V. Cukor utca 3
Just off Ferenciek tere (noon to 10 p.m. daily), is a full-service vegetarian restaurant with a comprehensive English menu that includes some macrobiotic items.

Sightseeing

We recommend taking the services of some of the sightseeing companies who offer tours in the city. What you should definitely not miss is the Castle and the downtown. If you have the opportunity try to catch the sunset during a river cruise - one of the most spectacular sights our city can offer.

Basic principles:
• To find places to eat where the locals go.
• Do not go to restaurants which have staff to bring you in. If there are people standing in front of the building and trying to invite you, simply move along.
• Avoid restaurants which are empty at lunch and dinner time.
• Try to use a travel guide like Lonely Planet to find decent places.

We have collected some useful information for you during your stay:

Where to eat?

Aquincum Museum: III. Szentendrei út 139. Tue-Sun: 10.00-17.00. T: 259-1650. Set amongst some stunning ruins of the Roman town, Aquincum, the museum contains relics of those bygone days when present-day Hungary was part of the Roman empire.

György Ráth Museum: I. Szentháromság tér 6. T: 212-1030, 212-1031. Mon-Fri 11.00-21.00, Sat-Sun 13.00-21.00. Just opposite Matthias Church. The only place where you can find more than 680 kinds of wine. Take a stroll around the 22 wine regions of Hungary. You can taste as well as buy!

Lisztes Ferenc Museum: VI. Vörösmarty utca 35. T: 322-9854. Mon-Fri 11.00-18.00, Sat-Sun 09.00-17.00. Modern art, sculptures and other items from the Museum’s extensive collection.

National Gallery (Magyar Nemzeti Galéria): I. Dísz tér 17 (in the Castle), T: 375-5567. Tue-Sun 10.00-16.00. Excellent introduction to Hungarian art since the foundation of the Hungarian state (exhibits include late Gothic altarpieces and Hungarian paintings as well as sculpture from the 19th and 20th centuries).

Transport Museum (Közlekedési Múzeum): XIV. Városiút tér 1. T: 343 0565. Tue-Fri 10.00-16.00, Sat-Sun 10.00-17.00. Chronicals of the history of all kinds of transportation. Boats, trains, automobiles and more.

House of Terror Museum (Terror Háza): VII. Andrassy út 60. T: 310-10.00-18.00. Tel: 374-2600. Solemn memorial to the victims of both the fascist and communist regimes held in the actual building used as the secret police.

Jewish Museum of Budapest (Zsidó Múzeum): VII. Dohány u. 2. Tel: 343-6756. Varied exhibitions and art works.

Budapest is celebrating contemporary art in October. The exhibition of the 85-year-old Arnulf Rainer, who is one of the most significant Austrian painters nowadays can be visited in the National Art Gallery, as one of the highlights of the events. The CaFe Budapest Contemporary Art Festival is offering a wide range of events, such as classical and popular music, dance, theatre and graphic art programs can be currently visited. The Hungarian National Opera showcases the play “Cosi fan tutte” on 16 October and on 18 October and the play “Falstaff” on 17 October. The opera play called Lady Sarashina can be seen in Liszt Ferenc Academy of Music on Friday, and the Hungarian contemporary art play called Voices of Sapporo – tickets can be purchased for free of charge on the spot – is presented on Saturday. For more information on the programs please visit cefebudapest-fest.hu

A must-see in Budapest is the so-called ruin pubs and the popular room escape games, where you can make a successful exit within an hour by solving puzzles, logical and ability games.

The A38 ship also has an excellent restaurant and its pub was voted as the best pub in the world in the ranking created by Lonely Planet.

We would like to offer some recommendations for your: where to go, where to eat or what to visit during your stay in Budapest. Budapest is a safe, nice city with inhabitants famous of their hospitality and we have many to offer you both in terms of sights and experience.

This time of the year, the Indian Summer or as we call it Old Ladies Summer is maybe the best time to visit our beautiful city – if you lucky enough to get some sun during your stay.

We have collected some useful information for you during your stay:

Where to eat?

Basic principles:
• To find places to eat where the locals go.
• Do not go to restaurants which have staff to bring you in. If there are people standing in front of the building and trying to invite you, simply move along.
• Avoid restaurants which are empty at lunch and dinner time.
• Try to use a travel guide like Lonely Planet to find decent places.

Y coffee and Restaurant, XIV. Stefánia ut 1
The closest to the Dental World ‘12 its atmosphere reflects the combin-