What’s on Sunday, 22 April

Sports
Singapore Slingers vs. Bangkok Cobras
Venue: Singapore Indoor Stadium, 16:00
www.singaporeslingers.com

The famous Singapore Slingers was formed in 2006. The name, which is often mistakenly thought to be derived from the popular Singaporean cocktail, is actually a reference to swinging or shooting the ball into the basket.

In October 2009, the team joined the ASEAN Basketball League. They have played against teams from the Philippines, China, Indonesia, India and Australia. Today, the Slingers will welcome basketball fans to their air-conditioned home stadium in Singapore when they compete against the Bangkok Cobras, a young team that was only formed in 2011. Visitors are invited to experience the dynamic atmosphere of a professional basketball game with the Slingers, which offers athletic entertainment, passion and excitement.

Today, one of Singapore’s main professional theatre companies will stage the world’s greatest romantic tragedy by William Shakespeare. Artistic Director Ivan Heng revives this theatre classic in a sensual and innovative production. Heng is an internationally acclaimed and award-winning theatre practitioner and one of Singapore’s most prominent creative minds. He locates the love story in contemporary Singapore, giving the drama a local flavour including Hanzel Tan starring as Romeo and Julie Wee as Juliet, the cast of the production is all Singaporean, which offers drama enthusiasts the exotic opportunity to experience the early modern English text with a Singapore accent.

Exhibition
Fang Lijun Documenta
Venue: MOCA, 27A Loewen Road
www.mocaloewen.sg

MOCA is Singapore’s museum of contemporary art. Its current exhibition showcases the works of Fang Lijun, one of China’s most influential visual artists. Lijun was one of the proponents of the Cultural Revolution during the 1990s. Today, he is based in Beijing and has created various artworks, including hand drawings and photographs. His paintings typically depict bald-headed figures wearing quizzical expressions. The exhibition presents a selection of the artist’s sketches and notes over time, reflecting the major transformations experienced by Chinese society and the effect of this on the individual. They also reflect how this particular historical background shaped the artist’s creations.

Nightlife
Tawandang Mirobrewery
Address: 1 Raffles Boulevard
www.tawandang.com

Tawandang, with two locations in Singapore and two in Bangkok, is one of Thailand’s most popular restaurants. Time magazine praised the Bangkok venue for its dining and entertainment. The restaurant was the first to introduce the “East meets West” concept to the dining scene and is well known for its homestyle beer and modern Thai cuisine, which ranges from exotic grilled seafood and glass-noodle dishes to authentic German sausages and pork knuckles. Tawandang’s original German beer is brewed from ingredients from Germany under the supervision of a professional Bavarian brewmaster. Guests of the house can choose between Lager, Weizen and Dunkel beer.

1-Altitude Gallery & Bar
Address: 1 Raffles Place
www.1-altitude.com

The world’s highest al fresco bar is said to be the best place to chill out while enjoying splendid views of Singapore. 1 Altitude is a modern rooftop bar located at 282 metres and extends from the 61st to the 63rd floor of Raffles Place. Its triangular-shaped gallery offers visitors a rare 360-degree view over the city of Singapore. Patrons can sip on unique cocktail creations, or select from the extensive wine list of high-quality labels and champagnes. Moreover, the venue offers a range of light savoury and sweet foods. It is open all night from Sunday to Thursday.