What’s on in Stockholm
Stockholm, 16–18 November

Moment—Moki Cherry
Date: 16–18 November
Opening times: 10:00–18:00 Wednesday & Thursday | 10:00–20:00 Friday
Venue: Moderna Museet, Skeppsholmen
www.modernamuseet.se

With a mixture of original works, music and stage photos, the museum of modern art in Stockholm is honouring Swedish artist Moki Cherry (1943–2009). Her artistic practice was inspired by experiments such as counter-urbanisation, subsistence farming and children’s projects. Visitors can follow Cherry’s journey between life, art, pop, jazz and politics through her colourful and vibrant art. The exhibition includes works made from 1967 to 2007, but highlights particularly her 1970s creations.

The museum is located on Skeppsholmen, an island in central Stockholm that can be accessed by foot, bus and boat. For the last, take the Djurgården ferry from Slussen and enjoy a 5-minute panoramic ride before entering Moki Cherry’s eclectic world.

Autechre
Date: 16 November
Start time: 21:00
Venue: Kägelbanan, Södra Teatern
www.sodrateatern.com

One of electronic music’s most exciting and critically acclaimed acts, British duo Autechre will be performing on Wednesday night at Kägelbanan. However, those of you interested in the spectacular gold and red velvet setting of the Södra Teatern, Stockholm’s oldest active theatre, constructed in 1856, will be disappointed: The concert will be performed in total darkness in order to convey the “classically pitch dark mind-warping audio affair” that is an Autechre live experience. Presenting their latest album, elseq 1–5, a 4-hour-long electronic music feast in five pieces—Manchester natives Sean Booth and Rob Brown will be supported by Russell Haswell and Andy Maddocks in Stockholm.

After-work jazz with Jam Station
Date: 17 November
Time: 17:30–20:00
Venue: Hotel Birger Jarl, Tullgatan 8
www.birgerjarl.se

Bring the day to a relaxing end with live music and a tasty menu at Hotel Birger Jarl. Today, Stockholm-based jazz quartet Jam Station will feed your senses with its musical after-work selection. Magnus Norden, Ketil Thomasson, Mats Skımmander and Ari Halvorsen have been performing together since 2006, playing in various jazz locations in Sweden. Their repertoire includes classical jazz tunes, and Norwegian, jazz, as well as a number of songs by Lars Jansson and Lars Gullin, and of course, the band’s own compositions. Perfect for grabbing a beer or a glass of wine and unwinding after a busy exhibition day. Admission is free.

Christmas market in the Old Town
Date: 19 & 20 November
Opening times: 11:00–18:00
Venue: Stortorget, Old Town of Stockholm
www.stortorgetjulmarknad.com

Visitors extending their stay to the weekend should make sure to experience the medieval charm and Swedish delicacies sold at the Old Town Christmas Market that opens on Saturday. Held for the first time in 1523, the market is the oldest one in Sweden and one of the oldest Christmas markets in Europe. During the four weeks before Christmas, select vendors sell local specialities, such as smoked sausages and reindeer meat, candy flöss and glögg (mulled wine), as well as a range of Swedish handicrafts and decorative arts of high-quality workmanship. Put on some warm winter clothing to brave the crisp November temperatures and immerse yourself in the magic of a Nordic Christmas.
